Baby grunting trying to poop

If breast or bottle feed, children swallowed the air, a little more than others. Attempt to tick the child once or twice during feeds. You may not always need to check. If the child seems to be swollen a lot of air, or seems to be "Full" before the end of the feed, you may need to check more often. Burping techniques: place the child over the shoulder and stroking firmly or rubbing the lower back. Aspiring the child through the ride facing down and caressing or rub the back. Sit your child in her lap, claiming under the chin with your non-dominant hand in a "C" shape and allowing their chest and belly to rest against your forearm. This will free your dominant to stroke the back and rub your back. It is common for the child spitting a bite of milk when burps, spire up, reflux, and the oldest vomiting spit after each power supply or while they stop. Reflux is the medical term to spit. We don't worry about spitting unless the volume is so big that children fail to get a weight a Developed, children have breathing problems (eg. Bluish discoloration around the lips), or unless you spit causes pain. To reduce the spit to keep the child in a vertical position. And minimize the vigorous game with the child for about 30 minutes after feeding. More frequent burping can also be useful or necessary. When lying on the
