How to write a debate report

How to write a report on debate competition.

A report after action (AAR) is a great tool to use to evaluate the team's projects after they have been completed. This type of relationship can be very short or quite long, depending on the scope and time of the project that is analyzed, but no matter the length, the report always serves the same purpose: evaluation and improvement. Simply, it's a way to reflect on a project after its completion. Share the results of your project, both positive and negative, can help future teams to satisfy your projects and avoid pitfalls á €
